No Fault Found in Structure of Huge Army Plane Which Crashed Sunday.

NOR IS DESIGN ATTACKED

Report of Board of Investigation Declares That Pilot, Who Lost Life,
With Other Army Officers, Had No
Way of Avoiding Path of the Storm.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Lieutenant Stanley Ames, pilot of the Curtiss Eagle Army airplane that crashed near Morgantown, Md., with a loss of seven lives, is exonerated of all blame for the accident in the formal report of the board of investigation submitted today to Major M. F. Scanlon, commander at Bolling Field.

The accident, in the opinion of the board of three army aviators, was unavoidable and was due to the storm into which the plane ran while returning from Langley Field, Va., to Washington.

The report was submitted to Major Scanlon just before the commandant and his staff left the flying field for Washington to attend the funeral of Lieutenant Ames. Captain William C. Ocker was senior officer of the board and the other members were Lieutenant Paul Wilkins and L. M. Wolfe.

The board's findings were based on a study of the wreckage of the big ambulance plane and the testimony of persons in the vicinity of Morgantown, who saw the wreckage. The report says the wreckage did not show any evidence of structural failure and the findings of the board, it is understood, do not attribute the crash to any fault of design of the machine.

The board also expresses the opinion that Lieutenant Ames, the pilot, had no opportunity to go around or over the violent thunder storm in which his plane was caught.

The report was transmitted by Major Scanlon to Major General Mencher, chief of the air service. Its text was withheld pending a careful study by General Mencher.

Appropriations for Cottage State and
Other Hospitals Cut

In signing appropriation bills to bring the total within the limits of estimated income during the ensuing two-year period Governor Sprout cut the appropriation for the Cottage State hospital at Connellsville from $35,000, granted by the Legislature, to $25,000, or $7,500 less than was received under the appropriation of 1920.

The Mount Pleasant Memorial hospital was granted $30,000 by the Legislature. This was cut to $27,000, or $3,000 less than was awarded in 1920.

Other hospitals, homes, and other charitable institutions throughout the state suffered cuts of 10 to 20 per cent in appropriations.

Of the higher educational institutions, State College received the deepest cut, $1,004,214, or 30 per cent having been trimmed from the $3,340,214 awarded by the Legislature. The University of Pittsburgh received $200,000, a reduction of $200,000, or less than 20 per cent. Duquesne University's award of $50,000 was not reduced. Washington & Jefferson's appropriation of $25,000 was reduced to $15,000. Temple University, Philadelphia, was pared $10 per cent, from $400,000 to $360,000. The University of Pennsylvania received $1,200,000, or 81 per cent of the amount granted by the Legislature.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS AND OVER 1,000 VETERANS
MARCH AT GREENSBURG

Unveiling of Memorial Tablet to World
War Heroes Event of Memorial Day Program.

GREENSBURG, May 31.—Paying tribute to the men and women—living and dead—who took part in America's wars, Governor William C. Sprout delivered the Memorial Day address here yesterday afternoon at the unveiling of the bronze memorial tablet containing the names of those who gave their lives in the World War. Governor Sprout said that he had many invitations to attend similar meetings in the state but his regard for a special favor to come to old Westmoreland county to speak to the war veterans. In comparing this county to other parts of the country he stated that Westmoreland county has 50,000 more people than the state of Delaware and as many people as the states of Utah and Nevada. Glancing back to history, he stated that during the Revolutionary War when the country was only three years old, our county sent to the battle front as many soldiers as any of the large eastern counties and that during the Civil War, when the county had only a small population, there were 5,400 soldiers sent to the front.

Little Betty Zundell, the eight-year-old daughter of the late Captain James E. Zundell of Mount Pleasant, who was killed in action, wore a gold star on her arm. The child's mother died several months after her husband was killed. Betty unveiled the memorial.

The bronze tablet containing the names of 414 of the heroes of this county who died or were killed during the World War was erected at the left side at the entrance of the Main street door of the court house. The tablet is about four by six feet. At the top, in a wreath, are the years "1917" and "1918." The next line contains the words: "Dedicated in Honor of These Soldiers, of 'Westmoreland County' on next line followed by "Who Lost Their Lives in the Great War." The names of the dead follow in four columns.

More than 1,000 soldiers, sailors and marines of the World War marched on the streets of Greensburg, together with many of the veterans of the Civil War and Spanish-American War, at 2:30 o'clock. The parade was one of the largest military processions ever held here.

Salvation Army

For War Veterans

Through the Salvation Army, veterans young and old, attending the Memorial Day exercises in Hill Grove cemetery were supplied with ice-cold lemonade. The same organization provided the cooling drink to those attending the services at Dickerson Run cemetery.

Adjutant John Campbell prepared the drink and women of the Salvation Army served. Especially in the afternoon, when the sun was unusually hot, the service, something new here, appreciated. There was an abundant supply.

SWAT-THE-FLY CAMPAIGN IN CITY OPENED

Several Thousand Swatters Distributed to Homes by Boy Scouts.

STATE BACKS MOVEMENT

Cooperation of People to RM City of Monaco to Health Strongly Urged;
Breeding Places of Insects to Be Closely Watched by Health Officer.

The state campaign against the most dreaded disease carrier, the house fly, was opened in Connellsville Monday with the distribution of several thousand swatters by the Boy Scouts, who went from house to house with the implements of fly war.

The State Department of Health is fighting against the housefly throughout Pennsylvania and the cooperation of every individual is asked, in order to extend the battle. The swatters are being distributed free and everyone is asked to use them whenever a fly is seen.

The Boy Scouts have been enlisted to push the campaign and their first step is the distribution of the swatters. Mrs. Howard Myers, chairman of the local committee, has been advised by the State Department of Health that the motion pictures on "Flies" will be shown in the near future.

An inspector has been appointed to see that all stables and other breeding places for flies are kept clean. The state law compelling merchants to keep all foods covered will also be rigidly enforced this year.

The state is waging a stronger fight against the fly this year than ever before and a greater measure of success will be secured, it is felt, when the public has been more fully educated in the evils of the housefly and has become trained to work towards its extermination.

The Boy Scouts will meet again on Thursday at 4 o'clock at the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. to complete the distribution of the swatters.

May Wheat Moves Up Sharply When Market Is Short

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Wheat for May delivery made a sensational upward swing in price today as the result of demand from shorts who had waited until the last of the month before fulfilling contracts. Little was for sale and the market ran up 1 1/2 cents a bushel to $1.22, as compared with Saturday's finish. Except in the May delivery, wheat, although firm, kept within moderate limits.

Large receipts of all kinds of grain here today operated as a counter-balance against the bullish effect of the unusual upturn in the price of May wheat. About 2,400 carloads arrived including 450 cars of wheat.

ONE DIVORCE GRANTED

Mrs. Etta Watlington Given Freedom;
One Petition Refused.

Mrs. Etta Watlington of Connellsville was granted a divorce in court in Uniontown today morning. Her husband, Harry Watlington, a United States Army officer, desertion was charged. Mrs. Watlington said her husband refused to live with her in Scotland because it was "too slow." She said they were married in Baltimore on October 6, 1917, and that her husband was good looking but she didn't think he would ever be satisfied to settle down with one woman.

Fred Aller of Connellsville was refused a divorce from Helen Aller. They were married in February, 1921. Aller testified she was a wife in name only.

POSTCARD MAILED IN UNIONTOWN SIX YEARS AGO FINALLY RECEIVED

Leroy Morris of Uniontown yesterday received a postcard mailed to him more than six years ago in that city. The card, bearing the postmark of February 29, 1915, P. M., was found by Morris yesterday in his box at the postoffice.

The card was mailed by Sherrill Smith, the first receiver of the defunct First National Bank of Uniontown just after that institution failed. It was a notice to Morris to take his bankbook to the bank and have it balanced.

The odd part of the late arrival of the card, just exactly six years, three months and 11 days overdue, is that Morris is now employed in the postoffice.

Local Veterans of
The B. & O. Lead
Booster Campaign

The report of the progress of the business-getting campaign being conducted by the employees of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, published in the May number of the Employees Magazine, shows P. J. Harrigan and James Wardley of Connellsville to have been among the most active and successful solicitors of the whole system.

These veterans are credited with having solicited 39 cars of freight during the two weeks ending April 30, or more than secured by another team or single individual employee engaged in boosting trade for their company. The business secured through the efforts of the local veterans embraces coal, clay, brick, lumber, furniture, flour, steam pumps, castings and other commodities. Most of it is outgoing from points on the Baltimore & Ohio.

The remainder is incoming, routed to arrive at destination via the Baltimore & Ohio.

"This campaign," says H. O. Hartzell, manager of the commercial department, "is evidently having broader results than indicated by the returns of our solicitation cards, as division freight agents have reported a number of cases of substantial shipments secured by Baltimore & Ohio men secured by Baltimore & Ohio men and veterans for which no cards have been made out or returned."

roads Will Be Cut 10 Per Cent, Estimate.

EFFECTIVE ON JULY 1

Decrease Will Mean Saving About $300,000,000 From the Nation's Railway Wage Bill; New Rates Will Eventually Apply to All Lines.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 31.—The United States Railway Labor Board today completed work on the decision which it hands down tomorrow, cutting the wages of employees of 104 railroads. Eventually the new rates to be established will apply to every road in the country.

Advance estimates of the slash to be ordered by the board placed the figure somewhere between 10 and 15 per cent with the general belief that it will be nearer the lower figure than the higher.

A 10 per cent cut would subtract some $300,000,000 from the nation's railway wage bill.

Tomorrow's decision will be effective July 1, just 14 months after the $500,000,000 increase of last year took effect.

HUNDREDS JOIN IN MEMORIAL DAY
PARADE AT DUNBAR

Feature of Procession Is Pony Cavalry
Division; Rev. O. W. Bolton
Speaker of Day.

DUNBAR, May 31.—Probably the largest and certainly the most elaborate Memorial Day observance ever witnessed in Dunbar was that of yesterday, in which the veterans of all wars, the Junior Order, United American Mechanics, the various Sunday schools, the American Manganese Manufacturing company and hundreds of citizens participated.

The program was under the direction of Rev. W. H. McKivven of Pittsburgh, until recently pastor of the First Baptist church, and commander of Will F. Stewart Post, G. A. R., of Uniontown. A delegation of veterans from Will F. Stewart Post, consisting of Comrades D. T. Campbell, James Bronner, James Collins, Charles Lewis and Thomas G. Zinn, represented the post in the exercises. The Fairbanks Cornet band led the procession and farther back came the local band in which County Superintendent of Schools J. S. Carroll was the principal fife. In the line were 18 World War veterans in full uniform and 20 others in citizen clothes; about 100 Juniors, fully a thousand members of the Sunday schools and almost 100 automobiles.

A special feature of the parade was the "pony cavalry," 28 strong from the American Manganese Manufacturing company, the ponies being handsomely decorated in bunting and wearing United States flags in their bridles. Their riders wore sashes of bunting. The most handsomely decorated equipage was that of John Daly. In it he had placed seven of his children—about half of them—thus proving not only his loyalty but his practical patriotism.

The ceremonies were held over the grave of Martin B. Pope, which was banked with flowers. Rev. McKivven announced the opening of the exercises, and then "America" was sung by the assembled crowd, led by Rev. O. W. Bolton. Then followed the invocation by Rev. L. R. Wolfe, and an address by Rev. Bolton, the reading of the ritual of the G. A. R. by D. T. Campbell of Uniontown, the singing of "Bliss Be the Tie That Binds," the firing of the salute by eight guns, the pronouncement of the benediction by Rev. D. E. Miner, "Amen" and the dismissal by Rev. McKivven.

In addition to the large number in the parade more than a thousand persons had assembled at the cemetery to witness the ceremonies and participate in them.

In the afternoon an interesting ball game was played between Mount Sterling and the local team, resulting in a victory for the home team by a score of 9 to 3. A large crowd witnessed the game.

Chautauqua Program
To Be an All-Star
Affair This Season

"From the first day, which offers the European Artists and Edwin M. Whitney, monologist, on through the festival of music which closes the season, this season's chautauqua program is an all-star affair," according to J. C. Siddall, the advance representative who has arrived to deliver season tickets to the local committee and to distribute the first supply of chautauqua advertising. Mr. Siddall calls special attention to the comedy success, "Nothing But the Truth," which is to be presented by a cast of noted New York stars. He promises that this will be one of the most enjoyable high spots of chautauqua week. He likewise mentions the Gilbert & Sullivan light opera, "Pinafore," as the headline event.

Among the musical companies offered on this season's program are the Fisher Operatic company; the New York City Brass Choir; Harold Procter, California tenor; Irene Stojosky, Polish violinist; and William Januszek, the pianist, who accompanied Elsie Janus on her memorable tour of the American soldier camps in France.

The chautauqua dates are June 24 to June 30, inclusive.

THOUSANDS TURN OUT FOR MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE

Parade to Connellsville Cemeteries One of Largest Witnessed Here.

MANY WORLD WAR MEN

Salute to Dead Fled and Rites Held in Three Burial Grounds; Chaplain Schell, Rev. E. A.
Glennon, M. J. Welsh Speakers.

Never before did Connellsville have such a turnout in observance of Memorial Day as there was yesterday, both in the parade of soldiers, old veterans and young veterans, and in the thousands who gathered along the line of march. They then moved on to the cemeteries for the services.

The burial grounds, especially the Hill Grove, where the memorial exercises were conducted, were beautiful with their thousands of potted and cut flowers. "The entire service was marked by a simplicity that carried a depth of feeling, and was a true tribute from grateful Americans to their countrymen who have died in all wars to make this nation the great power it is in the world today."

The parade, forming at city hall, was an impressive affair. With its muffled drums, the Connellsville Military band headed the line of march. And playing Chopin's funeral march. Those who had not been touched by the solemnity of the occasion were made to realize the purpose of the day when they saw the silent ranks of former service men marching by, all spirit of hilarity missing.

World War veterans turned out in large numbers, as did the Spanish veterans, the Sons of Veterans and the members of the G. A. R. and the Ladies' Circle to the G. A. R. The members of the last two organizations rode in automobiles furnished for the occasion. The volunteer firemen were also in uniform.

Over 100 Boy Scouts were in line. At the cemeteries the Scouts assisted the Civil War veterans from the cars and accompanied them to the scene of the ceremonies, taking care of all their wants. The veterans were being aided with every comfort until they were back in the automobiles. It was a fine sight to see some aging soldier dressed in his Union blue uniform, slowly making his way from a cemetery with the stalwart figure of a young Boy Scout at his side, making the journey as easy as possible.

The parade first moved out South Pittsburgh street, passing the Carnegie library square, where hundreds of school children, waving American flags and dressed in white, sang "America" as the G. A. R. rode by. Following the ceremonies at Chestnut Hill cemetery and the decoration of the graves of the soldier dead there, the line of march proceeded to St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. E. A. Glennon and M. J. Welsh were the speakers there.

Former Chaplain Charles Schell of the 10th Infantry was the speaker at the Hill Grove cemetery. The final services of the day were held at the G. A. R. plot there. The speaker paid homage to both the dead and living soldiers. A firing squad, composed of Veterans of Foreign Wars in charge of Thomas A. Dalley, gave the salute and taps was sounded by Bugler Horace Atkins.

At noon "America" and "Lead Kindly Light" were played on the chimes of the Trinity Lutheran church at the request of the local post of the G. A. R.

The Memorial Day sermon was delivered Sunday in the Methodist Episcopal church by Dr. B. W. Hutchinson. A carnation was placed on the coat of each veteran by members of the Epworth League.

Among old veterans participating in the Memorial Day exercises were W. P. Clark, J. J. Barnhart, J. R. Bailey, William Artis, A. R. Brashear, William Beal, Clark Collins, E. Dunn, J. L. Dunham, A. S. Haddock, John Jones, John Link, Joseph A. Mason, Israel Miller, Loy Rush, W. H. Shaw, Lyman Strickler, Adam Syrak, C. H. Whitely, George W. Ingram of Wilkesburg and Ambrose Welling of Vanderbilt.

Following the services in the city cemeteries a number of the veterans, together with the firing squad, and bugler participated in the services at Vanderbilt. Attorney John Duggan, Jr., was the principal speaker, and Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by Rev. J. S. Showers, pastor of the United Brethren church of this city.

W. P. Clark, who acted as chief marshal of the local parade, filed the same role in the Vanderbilt affair.

Hills—the supreme test of a motor and its fuel

Hills bring out the maximum power a motor can deliver; the utmost a gasoline can produce.

There's a long, steep hill somewhere that you know. And, perhaps, a place in its ascent where with ordinary gasoline you've usually had to "drop into second."

Try the same hill again, with some of this season's Atlantic Gasoline in your tank, and note the results!

Observe how much farther you'll travel "on high." See if today's Atlantic isn't the snappiest and most powerful gasoline you've ever used.

And in the sustained test—day in and day out—Atlantic will further prove its extraordinary quality:

In the greater mileage the recorder shows you are getting; in cleaner burning; in the elimination of fuel carbon; in the rare necessity for grinding valves; in the all-round smoother operation of the motor.

POOR FIELDING RESULTS IN DEFEAT OF COKERS BY HOMESTEAD AGGREGATION

Morning Score Is 4-2; In Afternoon Results Is 9-4; Some Gross Errors.

LOCALS BEAT GREENSBURG

Uncertain fielding lost both games to the Homestead Grays for the Connellsville Independents yesterday. The morning contest ended with a 4-2 score for the colored team and it was made more bitter by the fact that real ball playing by the local club would have meant a victory. The afternoon game went up in the second inning, when the visitors got seven tallies across the pan before the side was retired. The final score was 9-6.

Slats Salada started well in the opening round by retiring the batters in one, two, three order, two of the outs being over the strike-out route. The second, however, proved disastrous for him when he statted by letting the first batter put a ball between his legs. The entire batting order went around.

Connellsville scored in its half of the same inning when Kurtz got into one for three bases. He scored immediately afterwards on E. Fisher's bingle. There was nothing more doing in the scoring line until the sixth. Then the Grays added another when Williams singled and came home on M. Harris triple.

The Cokers came to bat determined to do the best but their efforts netted only four runs. Kurtz, the first batter, got his second safety. E. Fisher who had scored him in the previous inning, struck out. Hagerty got a single and when Jones poked out a two-bagger he brought in two runs. Venesky got a walk and Slats went out at first. Hobe Fisher got a hit that scored Jones and Venesky.

The Grays scored their last run in the seventh on a homer by W. Harris over the left field fence.

EVERSON DIVIDES DOUBLE-BILL WITH STANDARD

A pitchers' battle at Everson yesterday morning resulted in a 1-3 victory for Standard over the home team. Errors proved costly for both teams, and accounted for practically all the runs. In the afternoon the home team defeated the visitors 1-0. The contest was played Saturday at Dickerson Run. Pritchard, on the mound for the locals, was picked for three hits, as was Buck of the visitors.

YOUTH VALLEY INDEPENDENTS VICTORIES OVER WHITNEY

IVY WINGO PUZZLED OVER QUEER MIXUP

Game Played in New York Over Year Ago.

Chincinnati Catcher Claims He Shopped Opposing Player at Third Base After Umpire Harrison Ordered Him Out of Game.

Ivy Wingo still is puzzled by something that happened in a game the Cincinnati Reds played in New York last summer. He has not yet found anything in the rule book that satisfies him as to the correct ruling.

It was in a game in which he was put out of the contest and suspended and Eddy Roush suffered a like fate. The battle was close. George Burns smacked one to left field. Ivy claimed it hit foul at least a foot. Umpire Harrison said nothing. Ivy turned and asked:

"You are not going to call that foul, are you?"

Harrison said he was. Ivy threw his glove in the air. At that time Burns had just rounded first.

"When the glove went up Harrison said, 'You're out of the game.'"

Burns kept running. Ivy recovered his glove. The ball was not stopped at third base and Wingo backed up the play and got it, holding Burns at third.

And now Ivy wants to know, has Harrison changed his mind, ever since the play happened if he was out of the game. The instant Harrison told him or if he was supposed to keep on playing until the play or Burns was completed.

And if he was out when Harrison told him to go should the play have been stopped and Burns sent back to first as the Reds then had only eight men on the field?

Another question the play brings forth is: Should not Burns have been allowed to score because he was stopped at third by a player who was not in the game?

Ivy says he asked Harrison all these questions and a few more before leaving the field. But that Pate could not give him an answer. All Pate could do was to tell him to leave and let things stand as they were after Burns had been stopped at third.

FIXED FOR PINCH SLUGGERS

Manager McBride of Washington Has Nifty Bunch on Bench to Select Hitters From.

With Frank Brower on the pitching staff and Ben Miller and Hank Shanks doing utility duty, Manager McBride of the Washington team will have a nifty lot of hitters on the bench to pick pinch hitters from. Besides these named there are Pat Chafferty, extra catcher, and Pitchers "Chalky" and Courtney, both of whom "whack the ball."

Secret of Genius
To win success with tongue or pen, the best plan seems to be to say the old things over and over again. But say them differently.

TO DISCOURAGE GAMBLING

In an effort to discourage gambling, Manager Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Indians will not announce his pitchers' overhauls during the regular season, as has been his policy.

Diamond Squibs

Southern league club managers are planning to take out rain insurance.

Jim Denna of the Indians spent $7,500 for baseballs winning a pennant.

They'll soon be calling Babe Ruth the George Kelly of the American league.

The Giants have Dutch Reuther of the Dodgers pegged as a deceitful pitcher.

Fifty-two players reported for try-outs with the Grand Rapids Central league club.

Nick Altrock is selling himself as good as ever around the American league circuit.

Ball clubs usually play best on their own diamonds. That's a good ad for home cooking.

Total home runs made by Babe Ruth will soon pass the mark of 137, set by Garvey Cochrane.

Connie Mack has signed up one more collegian. Mack still looking for another Redie Collins.

Leland Stanford university is having a baseball pavilion to accommodate 4,000 spectators built.

A scattered few can pity the baseball "umpire" but think of serving as referee in a chess match.

St. Louis fans are now wondering why two ball clubs from the same town play the same kind of ball.

National league pitchers have figured out a way to stop George Kelly's home run streak. They'll walk him.

Given a chance to play regularly, Art Phelan has shown the Port Worth management what a valuable player he is.

When Connie Mack's kids stage a batting rally they are credited with nothing excited instead of showing a punch.

"You have my approval to keep any bats batted into the stands this year," says Ben Denna to his Cleveland patrons.

One great source of satisfaction to Manager Gibson of the Pirates is the good control Rube Pender has been showing.

Holdouts discover that baseball is getting common like the police the ready answer now being: "Aw, hell it's to the judge."

George Stephen Thompson, right fielder on the Lehigh university team, recently felt he to $750,000 left him by an uncle.

Walter Johnson's arm may not be as good as ever but it is good enough to get the ball by a lot of American league batters.

Harold Traynor sent by Pittsburgh to Birmingham, broke in with a big score for a Ram, getting four hits in his first game.

The Tigers have signed Leslie Myers, captain of the University of California nine for a tryout next year. Myers is an outfielder.

Fred Pfeffer, middle second baseman, was bumped into by an automobile recently and has been in a Chicago hospital for repairs.

Fred Clarke who coached Lefty Grimm of the Pirates in hitting at Hot Springs, seems to have done the young first baseman some good.

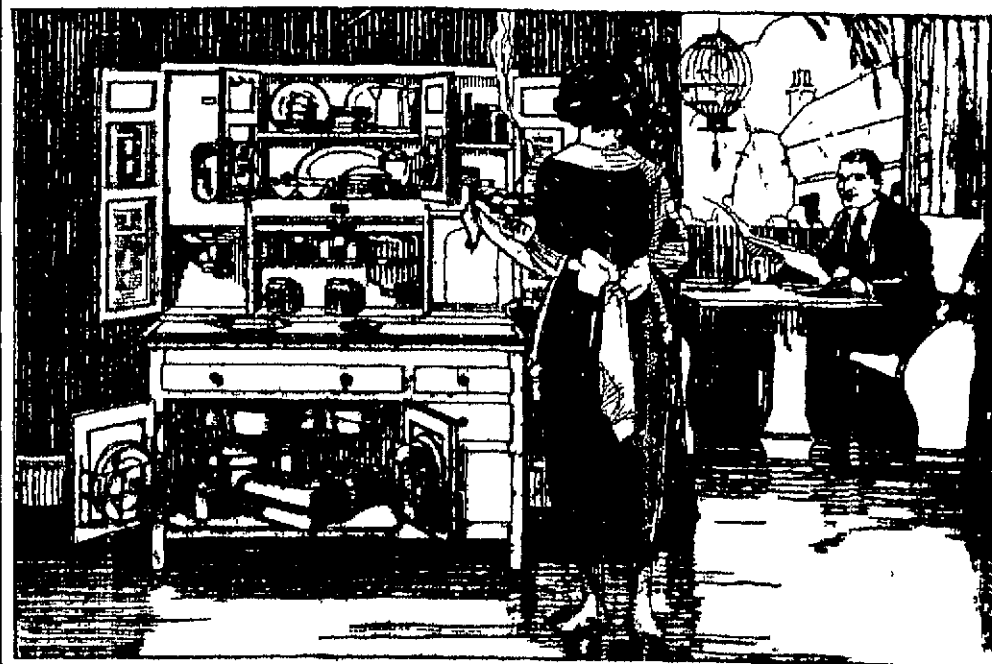

Joey Sewell and Riggs Stephenson, rookie Indians have upset the well-known dope that experience is necessary for a professional career.

Henry Grib, holdout third baseman of the Cincinnati Reds has again declared he will not join the club under any circumstances.

The name of Bryan Harris, Connie Mack's string bean pitcher, will go down in history. Babe Ruth's first touch in 1921 was made off the Texan.

Center fielder Johnny Mostil of the White Sox has been having trouble with lameness in his legs and this gives Amos Strunk a chance to break in.

MAN FOR THE AGES

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS OF DEMOCRACY

BY IRVING BACHELLER

They rescued Havana that evening, and sold their canoe to a man who kept boats to rent on the river shore. They ate a hot supper at the tavern and got a ride with a farmer who was going ten miles in their direction. From his cabin some two hours later they set out alone in the darkness.

"Going home is the end of all journeys," said Abe as they tramped along. "Did it ever occur to you that every live creature has its home? The fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the beasts of the field and forest, the creepers in the grass, all go home. Most of them turn toward it when the day wanes. The call of home is the one voice heard and respected all the way down the line of life. And, ye know, the most wonderful and mysterious thing in nature is the power that fool animals have to go home through great distances, like the turtle that swims from the Bay of Biscaya to his home off Yucatan's Land Somewhere, coming over in a ship, he had blazed a trail through the pathless deep more than ten thousand miles long. It is the one miracle, I reckon—the one call that's irresistible. Don't you hear it now? I never lie down in the darkness without thinking of home when I am away."

"And it's hard to change your home when you're woeed to it," said Harry. "Yes, it's a little like dying when you pull up the roots and move. It's been hard on you folks."

This remark brought them up to the greatest of mysteries. They tramped in silence for a moment. Abe broke in upon it with these words:

"I reckon there must be another home somewhere to go to after we have broke the last camp here, and a kind of a bird's compass to help us find it. I reckon we'll hear the call of it as we grow older."

He stopped and took off his hat and looked up at the stars and added:

"If it isn't so I don't see why the long procession of life keeps harping on this subject of home. I think I see the place of the whole thing. It makes it home, but the love and peace that's in it. By and by our home isn't here any more. It has moved. Our minds begin to beat about in the undiscovered countries looking for it. Somehow we get it located—each man for himself."

For another space they hurried along without speaking.

"I tell you, Harry, whatever a large number of intelligent men are convinced upon for some generations is as if it were a law of nature. It's about the only wisdom there is."

He had sounded the keynote of the new Democracy.

So, under the lights of heaven, speaking in the silence of the night of imperishable mysteries, they comforted each other in the land of plenty.

"It's as still as a graveyard," Harry whispered when they had climbed the bluff by the mill long after midnight and were near the little village.

"They're all buried in sleep," said Abe. "We'll get Rutledge out of bed. He'll give us a shake-down somewhere."

Abe looked up on the door of the tavern and saw a desire for just the weary travelers, for just then a cycle of their lives had ended.

BOOK TWO.

CHAPTER X.

In which Abe and Samson Wreath and Sam Rutledge Come to Burns and Stay to Regret.

Within a week after their return the village of Abe and Abe was defeated, although in his precinct two hundred and twenty-seven out of a total of three hundred votes had been cast for him. He began to consider which way to turn. Maj. John T. Stuart, a lawyer of Springfield—who had been his counsel in the "war"—had encouraged him to study law and make a good living, but he had learned that such a way led to a better appetite for sleep than study.

John McNeil, who for a short time had shared his military adventures, had become a partner of Samuel Hill in a store larger and better stocked than any the village had known. Hill and McNeil had no need of a clerk. Minnie Horndon and William Berry had opened a general store. Mr. Horndon offered to sell his interest to Abe and take notes for his pay. It was not a proposition that promised anything but loss. The community was small and there were three other stores and there was no other "Hill" Berry, who was given to drink and crime, as Abe knew.

Abe Lincoln had not been trained to weigh the consequences of a business enterprise. The store would give him leisure for study and New Salem could offer him nothing else more commanding than the act of the law. He could not think of leaving the little cabin village. There were Abe Rutledge and Jack Keiso and Samson Traylor and Harry Needles. Every ladder climbed is the village and on the plain seemed it was his friend.

Upon these people who knew and respected him Abe Lincoln based his Miller and Jack Keiso and Samson Traylor and John McNeil set out for the Traylor cabin. Samson greeted the party with a look of surprise.

"Have you come out to hang me?" he asked.

"No just to hang around you," said Abe.

"This time it's a heart warmin'!" Jack Keiso averred. "We left our wives at home so that we could pay our compliments to Mrs. Traylor without reserve, knowing you to be a man above jealousy."

"It's what we call a heart warmin' in the prairies," said Ferguson. "For one thing I wanted to see Abe and the minister have a rattle."

The Reverend Stephen Needles stood in front of the door with Sarah and Harry and the children. He was a famous wrestler.

"I can't rattle like I used to could, but I be willin' to give a try Abe," said the minister.

"You'd better save your strength for Satan," said Abe.

"Go on Abe," the others urged. "Give him a try."

Abe modestly stepped forward. In the last year he had grown less in stature than that kind of fun. The men took hold of each other, collar and elbow. They parried with their feet for an instant. Suddenly Abe's long right leg swept back and the left knee of the minister. It was the hip lock as they called it these days. Once secured the stronger man was almost sure to prevail and quickly. The sturdy circuit rider stood against it for a second until Abe sprang his bow. Then the heels of the former flew upward and his body came down to the grassy back floor.

"That ar done popped my wind bag," said the minister as he got up.

"Call in," said John McNeil and the others echoed it.

"I call in Samson Traylor," said the minister.

At last the thing which had long been a subject of talk and argument in the stores and houses of New Salem was about to be put to a practical test of strength and agility between the two great lions of Sangamon county. Either of them would have given a month's work to avoid it.

"Now ye shall see which is the son of Peleus and which the son of Telemon," Keiso shouted.

How shall we rattle? Samson asked.

"I don't care," said Abe.

"Rough and tumble," Ferguson proposed.

Both men agreed. They bent low intently watching each other, their great hands outreaching. They stood braced for a second and suddenly both sprang. Their forward motions came together with a thud. It was like two big bison bulls hurrying their weight in the first shock of battle. For a breath each bore with all his strength and then closed with his adversary. Each had an under hold with one arm, the other hooked around a shoulder. Samson lifted Abe from his feet but the latter with tremendous efforts loosened the hold of the Vermonteer, and regained the turf. They struggled across the dooryard, the ground trembling beneath their feet. They went against the side of the house, shaking it with the force of their impact. Samson had broken the grip of one of Abe's hands and now had his feet in the air again, but the young giant clung to hip and shoulder and wriggled back to his foothold. These lesser men were thrilled and a little frightened by the mighty struggle. Knowing the strength of the wrestlers they felt a fear of broken bones. Each had torn a rent in the coat of the other. If they kept on there was danger that both would be mangled. The children had begun to cry. Sarah begged the struggling men to stop and they obeyed her.

"If any of you fellows think that's fun you can have my place," said Abe. "Samson, I declare you elected the strongest man in this county. You've got the muscle of a grizzly bear. I'm glad to be quit of ye."

It isn't a fair election, Abe, Samson laughed. "If you were wrestling for the right you could lose me. This little brush was nothing. Your heart wasn't in it, and by thunder, Abe, when it comes to havin' fun I rather guess we'd both do better to let each other alone."

"Taint exactly good amusement, not for us," Abe agreed.

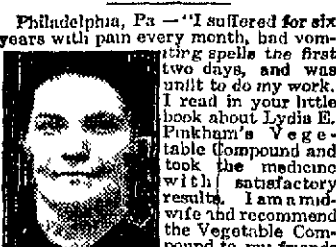

It was growing dark. Ann Rutledge arrived on her pony, and called to him and told him that the riders were in the village and were breaking the windows of Radford's store because he had refused to sell them liquor.

"Don't say anything about it," Abe cautioned her. "Just go into the house with Sarah Traylor and sit down and have a good visit. We'll look after the riders."

Then Abe told Samson what was up. The men concurred that there were some bushes by the roadside while the minister sat close against an end of the house with his bloodhound beside him. Before they were settled in their places they heard the riders coming. There were eight men in the party according to Abe's count as they passed. The men in concealment hurried to the cabin and surrounded it. They clung against the walls. In a moment they could see a big spot, bluer than the darkness, moving toward them. It was the massed riders. They came on with the stealth of a cat nearing its prey. A loud roar broke the silence. The preacher's bloodhound leaped forward. The waiting men sprang to their feet and charged. The riders turned and ran, fell pell in a panic toward their horses. Suddenly the darkness seemed to fill with moving figures. One of the fleeing men, whose loud talk the dog had seized, was yelling "for help. The minister rescued him and the dog went on baying after the others. When the New Salem riders fled the edge of the grave they could hear a number of regulars climbing into the treepots. Samson had a man in each hand; Abe had another, while Harry Needles and Alexander Ferguson were in possession of the man whom the dog had captured. The minister was out in the grave with his bloodhound and was baying at the New Salem riders. Jack Keiso arrived with a lantern. One of Samson's captives began howling and struggling to get away. Samson gave him a little shake and bade him be

SUFFERED SIX YEARS

Mrs. Stoll Tells Women How She Found Relief From Pain

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered for six years with pain every month, and vomiting and bleeding spells for the first two days, and was unable to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took the medicine with satisfactory results. I am now a wife and mother and I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and my daughters."

Take it. You may publish these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. LOUISA STOLL, 608 W. York St., Phila., Pa.

It is not natural for women to suffer as did Mrs. Stoll, and in many cases out of ten it is caused by some displacement or derangement of the system which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes, because it acts as a natural restorative.

Every woman who is subject to cramps, headaches, nervous spells, backache or those painful bearing-down pains should profit by Mrs. Stoll's experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and if there is any complication write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about her health.

Suddenly the Darkness Seemed to Fill With Moving Figures.

quiet. The man uttered a cry of fear and pain and uttered no more. White and Stephen Needles came out of the grove.

"The rest of that ar party done gone upstairs to roost," said the minister. "I reckon my dog'll keep 'em there. We better jest into these men later the house an' have a prayin' bee. I've got a right smart good chaunt, now, to whop of Satan."

They moved the riders' horses. Then the party—save Harry Needles, who stayed in the grove to keep watch—took its captives into the cabin. Three of them were boys from eighteen to twenty years of age. The other was a lanky, bearded Tennessee man some forty years old. One of the young lads had hurt his hand in the evening's frolic. Blood was dripping from it. The four sat silent and fearful and ashamed.

Sarah made tea and put it with meat and milk and doughnuts and bread and butter on the table for them. Samson washed and bandaged the boy's wound. The captives ate as if they were hungry, while the minister went out to feed his dog. When the men had finished eating Samson offered them tobacco. The oldest man filled his pipe and lighted it with a coal. Not one of the captives had said a word until this trial Tennesseean remarked after his pipe was going.

"Thanks, mister. You done been right good to us."

"Who told you to come here?" Samson demanded.

"Twere a man from St. Louis. He done said you hated the South an' would help niggers to run away."

"And he offered to pay you to come here and burn this house and run Traylor out of the county, didn't he?" Abe asked.

ANSWER THE CALL

Connellsville People Have Found That This Is Necessary.

A cold, a strain, a sudden wrench, a little cause may hurt the kidneys. Spills of backache often follow. Or some irregularity of the urine. A splendid remedy for such attacks, a medicine that has satisfied thousands.

Is Doan's Kidney Pills a special kidney remedy? Ask your neighbor. Many Connellsville people rely on it.

Here is Connellsville proof: Mrs. Allen Hartwell, 116 Jefferson St., Connellsville, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and know they are a good remedy. At times my back pained badly across my kidneys so that I could hardly get around. Sharp pains bothered me when I stooped over and my kidneys were irregular in action. I got headaches and dizzy spells and always felt worn out and tired. Doan's Kidney Pills were what I always used and one box would quickly relieve the trouble. Doan's are surely a good remedy for kidney complaint and I am glad to recommend them."

"He did—yes, sah—he, sah, did," answered the man—like a child in his ignorance and simplicity.

"If thought as I did," said the minister. "You tickled a big job, my friend. Did you know that every one of you could be sent to prison for a term of years, and I've a good mind to see that you go there. You men have got to begin right now to behave yourselves, or you'll be sent to prison for a term of years."

Stephen Needles returned as Abe was speaking.

"You jest leave em to me, Mr. Lincoln," he said. "These be good men, but ol' Satan done got his hooks on 'em. Mis' Traylor, if you don't mind, I be goin' to do a job of prayin' right now. Men, you jest sit down on yo' knees right here along o' me."

It is recorded later in the diary that the rude Shepherd of the prairies worked with these men on their farms for weeks until he had them wanted to the fold.

CHAPTER XI.

In Which Abe, Elected to the Legislature, Gives What Comfort He Can to Ann Rutledge in the Beginning of Her Sorrow—Also He Goes to Springfield for New Clothes.

Radford's grocery had been so wrecked by the raiders that its owner was disheartened. Reinforced by John Cameron and James Rutledge, he had succeeded in driving them away before they could steal whiskey enough to get drunk. But they had thrown much of his goods into the street. Radford unended his windows and offered his stock for sale. After a time Harry and Lincoln bought it, giving notes in payment and added for a license to sell the liquors they had, thus acquired.

Late that autumn a boy baby arrived in the Traylor home. Mrs. Onstott, Mrs. Wadwell and Mrs. Keiso came to help and one or the other of them did the nursing and cooking while Sarah was in bed and for a little time thereafter. The coming of the baby was a comfort to this lonely mother of the prairies.

There is a letter from Sarah to her brother dated May, 10, 1838, in which she sums up some moments of history in the words that follow:

"The Lord has given us a new son. I have lived through the ordeal—thanks to a goodness—and am strong again. The coming of the baby has recorded us to the loss of our old friends as much as anything could. It has made this little home dear to us and proved the quality of our new friends. Nothing is too much for them to do. I don't wonder that Abe Lincoln has so much confidence in the people of this country. They are sound at heart, both the northerners and the southerners. Harry Needles is getting over his disappointment. He goes down to the store often to sit with Abe and Jack Keiso and hear them talk. He and Samson are getting deeply interested in politics. Abe lets Harry read the books that he borrows from Major Stuart of Springfield. The boy is bent on being a lawyer and improving his mind. Minnie Keiso writes to her mother that she is very happy in her new home but there is something between the lines which seems to indicate that she is trying to put a good face on a bad matter. Abe has been appointed postmaster. Every time he leaves the store he takes the letters in his hand and delivers them as he gets a chance. We have named the new baby Samuel."

HEAD HUNTER IS NOT BAD FELLOW

Noted Explorer Explains Motive in Practice of Dyacks.

NOT OF THEIR RELIGION

Head of Beloved Neighbor Becomes Issue of Slaver Throughout Eternity. —Dyack is Never Known to Lie or Cheat. If You Want to Keep Your Head on Your Shoulders Be Careful How You Look at a Woman.

Summary to the popular impression, Dr. Carl Lumholz, Dyack of Borneo is not such a bad fellow, nor is the practice of Dyacking as reprehensible as it might seem.

The head hunter was presented in a new light by Dr. Carl Lumholz, a missionary explorer, lecturer and writer, who has returned recently from Borneo and is in this country while conducting an expedition to New Guinea.

"When you get at the motive underlying head hunting," said Doctor Lumholz to a Chicago Post reporter, "you are not so shocked. I'm not actually defending the custom, but there's more to it than appears on the surface."

Make Slaves of Souls. "It is part of the religion of Dyacks to hunt heads. The Dyack believes in a life after death. Living, he thinks, is like laying off your clothes. But life beyond the grave, in his philosophy, is an continuous vacation. There is work to be done, and if you are to accomplish your share you will need slaves."

"Consequently, the moment you lop off the head of a member of some neighboring tribe his soul becomes yours to be your slave throughout eternity."

"Thus, when a chief dies, the entire village goes off on a head-hunting expedition, and the souls are willed over to the great man as his slaves."

"Heads also protect a village against misfortune and give the only means of escape from a bad omen."

"The British and Dutch governments have been discouraging the practice by sentencing head hunters to six years of hard labor, but the custom persists for many reasons. For one thing, the head hunter is simply looked up to by the women and is looked up to in the village as a great hero."

Doctor Lumholz admitted that on more than one occasion his own head was in jeopardy.

"But there's one safe rule to be observed," he added. "Don't lose your head over the women and you won't lose it. The Dyacks are naturally jealous of their women. So be careful how you make love to the girls. If you look at them too fondly, their sweethearts are liable to exact a rather unpleasant revenge."

Doctor Lumholz, who is a member of the Society of Sciences of Christiania, the gold medalist of the Norwegian Geographical society, and a member of the Societe de L'Afrique-Asie, about twenty years ago among the aborigines of Queensland.

It was while he was in Australia that he discovered the true meaning of an animal of whose existence even P. T. Barnum never knew.

Likes Primitive People. "He camped alone for months in the jungle with the savages, and grew to like them. In fact, he says, it is his natural fondness for primitive people that is his greatest protection while among them."

Among other things he expects to find in New Guinea is a mysterious hooded animal about the size of a horse. It has been seen from great distances by the natives, but never by a white man. He expects also to study the apes and monkeys, the birds that lay eggs collect birds of paradise and about butterflies with them.

"And if I'm fortunate," he added, "I will discover some new minerals, and probably new deposits of gold."

Referring again to Borneo, he commended the Dyacks on their many virtues.

"A Dyack," he said, "is never known to tell a lie or to steal."

The country, however, according to Doctor Lumholz, has its drawbacks. Among these is the wood leech, which sits on your tent waiting for a chance to jump at you.

"He is a creature about three inches long," he said, "but can draw himself out so thin that he can go through linen mesh. He has a nasty habit of splitting at the same time he is sucking your blood."

"QUAKERS" MERELY IN NAME. —Set in Russia, of Doubtful Origin, Has Little in Common With the Parent Body.

In consequence of the recent revived interest in Quakerism on the continent of Europe—250 years ago there were numerous friendly settlements throughout Holland, Germany and the "pale" of Russia—the international service has been granted lower by the London yearly meeting to accept applicants for membership after receiving reports from their relief workers. The latest to be thus received, says the Manchester Guardian, is Countess Olga Tolstoy, daughter-in-law of Leo Tolstoy. She has long been interested in the Quakers and the recent renewal of the Quaker activities in Russia has made it possible for her to get into direct communication with English Friends. Among some of the smaller Russian sects there is one which is known as "Quakers." They are apparently the descendants of the Quakers, but they seem to have no direct knowledge of their origin, and lack of touch with the parent body has led to variations in doctrine and practice which today have led them to the name as a joke.

BRITISH IN NEW TRY TO RESCUE LOST GOLD

$10,000,000 Cargo of Ill-Fated Steamer Laurentic on Bed of the Ocean.

Another attempt is to be made this summer by the admiralty to recover the remainder of the billion lost when the armed liner Laurentic was mined and sunk off the north coast of Ireland in 1917.

The salvage vessel Racer, together with the Canadian diver No. 1, will undertake the salvage work for the fourth summer.

The Laurentic went down in 20 fathoms (120 feet) of water four miles off the coast of Donegal, carrying gold bars to the value of between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000.

Four years of pounding by Atlantic gales have reduced the wreck to a shapeless mass and each year the summer divers found that about 250 tons of hull and deckplates had settled on the strongroom, where the gold was stored, breaking it in. The result was that only about $25,000 was recovered, compared with $1,250,000 the previous year.

After the winter storms the divers expect to find the wreckage covered with gravel and silt, which has to be cleared away with pumps. Then the steel plates and girders must be cut away.

The Racer is now equipped, in addition to every possible contrivance for aiding divers, with a "recompression chamber." A diver can reach the bottom in half a minute, but after prolonged immersion at 20 fathoms below the surface half an hour has to be allowed for raising him because, if brought up too quickly, he is likely to collapse.

The great pressure at 30 fathoms saturates the system with nitrogen gas, but in the recompression chamber the nitrogen can be eliminated gradually.

PEASANTS CLOG RAILROADS

Moscow Decries Five-year Sentence for Riding on Platform.

The opening of free trade in grain during the peasantry and the cities of Russia has brought about such an utter state of chaos in the railway service that an official decree issued in Moscow orders sentences of five years in a concentration camp for persons traveling on the railway locomotives and car platforms.

According to the newspaper Economic Life the free trade decree has resulted in the peasants, "like a stream of lava, overflowing all the railway lines, occupying all the passenger trains and even the freight trains, riding on the locomotives, on the roofs and even on the bumpers."

Batches of the papers will be dropped by parachute in Boulogne, Rouen, Amiens and other cities where there are subscribers, says the Daily Mail.

The machines will be equipped with wireless in addition to complete printing plants and will issue news of politics, finance, sport and that of a general character.

Overheated Houses.

Atmospheric conditions in homes, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, are frequently not maintained as they should be. Houses are often overheated. In most cases practically no thought is given to humidity, or air motoring. Physicians insist that an overheated house is unhealthy, and that colds, sore throats, coughs, and the tendency to be nervous and feverish may be attributed to continuously breathing air having too little moisture in it.

At the Theatres

THE SOLESON.

"PASSION"—A special First National picture with Pola Negri, the celebrated Polish actress, in the leading role in the feature attraction today and tomorrow. The picture made a big hit with the large audiences on Memorial Day. "Passion," which had its American premier at the Capitol Theatre, because of its value as a correct historical picture of the last part of the 18th century France, is a production worthy of high place in the year's motion picture productions. The familiar account of the life of Madame Du Barry, her part in the court of the hapless Louis XV to which she rose from a poor milliner, supplies the main theme of the film. But a vivid background of the France of her day, the France that rose with great fury from their high places the king and his company, that part of the play will be the dominant attraction for many. The last scenes of the play are the uprising of the populace, the destruction of the Bastille and Madame Du Barry on the guillotine. The fire of revolution sweeping the country, the barricade fighting, the street orators, are depicted with a sympathetic understanding of the needs of the situation. With the crashing strains of the "Marseillaise" tuning many stirring incidents. More than 5,000 players appear in the picture and they are consummately handled, especially in the mob scenes.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"HER LORD AND MASTER"—A Vitaphone picture in five acts, with Alice Joyce, the popular screen star, in one of the most delightful roles of her screen career, is the feature attraction today. The picture is interesting throughout and will please all members of the family. Miss Joyce is supported by an excellent cast.

THE ORPHEUM.

"HALF AN HOUR"—A splendid Paramount picture in which Dorothy Dalton, the beautiful screen star, makes an appealing figure as the young wife, is being shown today. The heroine of the story is Lady Lillian, practically sold by her impoverished father when she becomes the wife of Garson, a wealthy American. He loves her, but her attitude toward him finally leads him to treat her cruelly and she becomes involved in a secret affair with Hugh Paton, an Englishman of her station in life. She is about to run away with him and is at his apartment for that purpose when she learns that he is unfaithful. At the same time news comes of his death in a motor accident. Dramatic events ensue, at the end of which Lady Lillian and her American husband are reconciled. Miss Dalton is ideally qualified to portray the aristocratic young wife and gives a spirited and appealing performance. Her supporting cast includes Charles Richman, Albert Barrett and Frank Lane. Harlow Knoch directed and it is a Paramount picture.

Produced in 1920 had value of $62,000,000, a gain of $10,000,000. Though many producers reported that their output had been curtailed from 10 to 30 per cent on account of inability to get railroad cars, the total quantity of sand and gravel produced in 1920 was nearly 78,000,000 tons, or about 7,000,000 tons more than in 1919.
